

Geologists of Jackson Hole Field Trip to Central Idaho

We started our trip at the Mackay field camp of the geology department of Idaho State University. The camp is located in a Basin and Range normal fault valley. We proceeded West on Trail Creek road taking the back road into Sun Valley. The above photo shows Dr. Paul Link demonstrating the folding that we saw from the pass. We proceeded North to the Sawtooth Range, Clayton and Challis. The East West trending gravel roads are located on Eocene normal faults as described by Susanne Janecke. Brent is shown in front of a fault at Clayton. Both Brent and Lillian took charge of feeding us a spaghetti dinner Saturday night and eggs and sausage both mornings. Lillian is shown at the Borah earthquake site.

The last day we ended at the beautiful valley of the Pahsimeroi.
